

2. Dear Sue

...She drove further. All her way to work, she could not get the message out of her head. "You light up my life." It kept turning round and round in her head! Who could have donned that?! Mr. Sunshine... She did not know anyone, who had called themselves that name before. When she came to her office, she was all by her self. All the other people would first be here about an hour. She switched on the computer. She had worked here, in this bank, for almost eight years. She had in many years dreamed about being a nurse, but she had never been really smart or clever, so she had decided to be something with computers. In her family, she had to older brothers, who always had been "computer nerds!" And that's why; she was really smart to computers.

Later that day, on her way home, she did not hear radio, like she used to. She did not know why; but maybe she was afraid?! If there would be a message to her again, even it would be very strange; she did not know what to do. So the only sound she could hear was the raindrops running down the windscreen, because now it was really raining!

When she came home, she parked her car. A few seconds later, she had opened her door; her dog came jumping out in the hall. On the floor, there was a letter addressed to her. There stood:

Dear Sue.

I don not think you know who I am, and it is probably the best! I just want you to know, that I have been following you for years, and know I can not stay in the "dark" anymore!

-I have to meet you!

Meet me at, Hyde Park tonight. I am standing at the big watch.

Love Mr. Sunshine!

Sue became really afraid! Who was he?! When she had heard the message in the radio, she had had a small hope, that it was Nick, who had regret that he had left her, and know would have her bag, but after this message, she was sure, that it was not him! She would call to him, because maybe he could help her! She called: "Hallo, this is Nick." "Hallo Nick, it is me, Sue." "Hallo Sue." "How is it going?" "Well, it is not going especially good!" "There is a man, who calls himself for Mr. Sunshine, who is following me." "This morning in the radio, there was a message to me from him, were he said that I should not been blue, and then they played a song called, "You light up my life!" "That sounds creepy", Nick said. "Yes it is!" "And when I came home from work, there was a letter, were he said he want to meet me at Hyde Park tonight." "Sue, stay where you are, and I come immediately..."

Sue took the letter, and she set down in the sofa. After awards Nick came. He came into the living room, and Sue saw that he looked very ill at ease. "You can sit here, Sue said." "Thanks!" "Well I have an idea, he said." "He said that you should meet him tonight, and it must be about nine o'clock." "So if we drive together into Hyde Park now, we are there a half an hour before that." "And then what?" Sue asked. "Shall I meet him alone, and get killed, or what have you been thinking?!" It was not with purpose to sound so angry, so she said quickly sorry! "It is okay." "I understand!" "And of cause you will not be alone." "I have called the police." The police known him very well, and they will do all what they can to get him arrested, but they have to have proofs." "Okay, that sounds like a good idea."

It was dark, but when they drove past the watch, they could see him. They drove a bit longer, and Sue stand out of the car. "Take care of you self", Nick said, before Sue closed the door. She walked down the streets; until she could see him. She had never been so afraid before. But Nick had said that the policemen would take care of her, and after he had said that, he had said that he loved her! First she did not hear it, and she had asked him to say it again. Yes he really loved her, and he had missed her so much, and when all this where over, they would move together.

When she came closer, she could she, it was a tall man, but she had never seen him before. "Hallo." She said. "Hallo Sue." His voice was very dark. "It is a pleasure to meet you finally." "You to." She said with a shaking voice. "Come with me, I will show you something." he said. "No I won't!" "You have to!" He grabbed her arm, but in that second, five policemen came, with pistols pointing at him! He could not do anything and he had to hand over...

The man got arrested, and Sue and Nick find together, and lived happy together in many years!