

... The box, with the snake, stood on the teachers table. We were only waiting for him to open it.

The teacher walked around the table, and started slowly to touch the box. I think he was surprised, and didn't know what to do.

'How did you catch it?' he asked us.

'With a bamboo stick.'

'Oh my god, I can't believe it.'

After a while he asked us frightened – 'should we open the box and see it?' Everyone looked at each other.

I didn't know the teacher would ask about that, so I answered 'Shouldn't we just send it to Bombay?' I didn't care. I actually would love to see the snake again. This magnificent creature.

Our teacher still walked around the box. It looked like he was "In-love", he really liked it?

We didn't know what to say, but after some time; we agreed to open the box, just one time... We stood around the box, with all the weapons and safety equipments we could find. I was scared to death.

We started released the ropes around the box; we could feel how the snake got more and more frightened. The box started shaking. We started shaking.

'I you sure this is a good idea!?' I yelled to the teacher.

'I'm not sure!' He answered.

Suddenly the boxes lid jumped off; we were all pushed back. We looked at each other. The box still stood on the table, but where was the snake? We waited for several minutes, just waiting for something to happen. The teacher stood up, and walked slowly over too the box, I was scared and hided behind a table... Out of nowhere, the snake jumped up and ripped off the teachers head. We all yelled and didn't no what to do.

One by one the snake killed my mates!? I thought I was going to panic, but I amazingly didn't. The snake didn't know, I was in the room. But I knew it was quicker than me, so didn't have much choice. My only opportunity was to jump out of the window, and hide quickly.

I took a deep breath, and starting to run towards the window. I jumped and hope for the best. I smashed down, but got up pretty quick and started running again. I try to look back while I was running but I couldn't see the snake. It was gone...
